P. M. A. Committeemen Suspended; New Election Scheduled For Tuesday, January 30th

It has been quite interesting, and in fact amusing, to hear, through various sources, of the rantings of a certain officer about our comment in this column last week about the Kefauver investigation, and how hard it would be for some of the officers to explain their sudden riches, particularly when they were working on a fee basis, covering only the arrests they make. Undoubtedly, this confirms our statement that some of the boys are having sleepless nights and that butterflies have been running rampant in their stomachs. Of course, the racketeers and their little puppets are not supposed to read the Echo; in fact, practically all of them have cancelled their subscriptions; so, we wonder how they acquaint themselves with our comments so readily. The comments of this officer would lead us to believe that the meeting is to provide the volun-Kefauver Committee most certain-field for their investigations. The Boy Scouts are going to con- calities. The meeting wil open tinue their sale of "Attend your church on Sunday" tags this weekend. Think of the many polio victims your dimes will help when you make a contribution to this worthy cause. Doesn't it give you a satisfying feeling to be able to help suffering humanity?

Judge D. M. Russell is holding the January Term of Chancery Court this week. The docket is rather light, and of course, this did not make "Judge" angry as he is headed for four straight weeks at Gulfport starting next Monday. Judge Russell is perhaps the busiest jurist on the bench in Mississippi. His district is entirely too large and with the advent of oil in some of the counties, his work has grown to such proportions that it is nearly impossible for a human being to take care of the hearing of all of the litigation. It is about time that the legislature did something about it. The three coast counties is a big enough district for any Chancery Judge.

Let's Do Something For Ourselves

We were much impressed with a letter we received from Charles F. Buren, County Eup rvisor of the Farmers Home Administration and published in our issue of De-with the service in both World Wars he had been able to judge people in the state of the first time in his life he was the himself but for his country.

he said, "we can listen to the delates that it on in the United Nations and Security Councie, read the daily papers and realize that the time is shork very short for all-out mobilization of every man, woman and even children in order to survive. This will mean the taking of our farmers from the fields, making it absolutely necessary that food be produced wherever possible. We will have rationing of food in the very near future, so let's prepare our people in this country now."

"We have had printed programs for all year around planting and these are now being distributed throughout the county; but I am thinking of the many people in the city who may not be able to plant a garden. In fact, I am thinking of everyone in the county who might do something for themselves now."

Aslave see it Charlie Burril is right. We have reached the poist where everyone must do something for themselves The situation is serious, and each day it is growing worse. The cost of living is soaring. Each day sees rises in price, and foodstuff is getting out of reach of the average man. This suggestion of a garden in the back yard is a good one, and it will certainly help alleviate the food difficulties. Much more than can be consumed during the crop period can be grown in a small garden, and the surplus can either be canned or frozen for later use.

Let's adopt this slogan for Hancock County, "A home garden in 1951 for every family." We should not hesitate Though political opponents, the two to utilize the services of the Agricultural agencies of the County for the information needed to plant a good garden, sabinet together and are personal and for the preservation of the surplus.

This is certainly one way of doing something for ourselves now, and it is one way to fight the continual rise and named fairs while Churchill was busy with in prices, when your government lacks the courage and the the war. foresight to control them.

Churchill Supports Attlee

THERE is a certain vein of similarity running through the lives of the two men who conferred regarding the course to be followed by the British and American governments toward future war or peace. Prime Minister Attlee and President Truman both are left-of-center liberals, both have spent much of their lives in government, both have tried to work for the lessprivileged sector of the British and American people.

Neither is considered a strong man in his own country, neither is a man of much imagination, neither has the force, the flair, the genius of two others who conferred a great deal during the past decade -Franklin Roosevelt and Winston Churchill.

However, Clement Attlee, in his quiet way and backed by a powerful labor party, has put across a schedule of socialist legislation which staid old Britons never dreamed could happen.

And while these reforms were passed in the face of vigorous conservative opposition, nevertheless, Attlee today has one important advantage over President Truman. He has the support of his opponent, Winston Churchill, when it comes to foreign policy.

Churchill Advised Trip

Furthermore, he has the support of most of the Conservative party. On the other hand, Truman of late has had the bitter, sometimes vitriolic opposition of a majority of Republican senators in regard to almost every foreign-policy move he has made.

Attlee not only was careful to get Churchill's support before he left London, but Churchill even advised him on how to force Truman's hand regarding the trip.

What happened was that immediately after the Prime Minister heard of Truman's atom-bomb served in the same coalition war friends. At one time Attlee was Churchill's deputy prime minister,

With this background of friendship, it is not hard to understand why Attlee should have consulted Churchill or that Churchill advised Washington, Furthermore, Churchill suggested that inasmuch as Truman might be opposed to the trip, Attlee should make a premature announcement of his plan—thus making it impossible for Truman to decline. This was why news of Attlee's plans prematurely leaked from London.

Churchill also promised Attlee that no effort would be made to overthrow the Labor government

Attlee's Tory Background

Though Truman and Attlee have came from more conservative sur--Miss Hope Crasto, a student roundings. His father was a Tory Association. After studying at England's ritziest schools and being admitted to the bar, however, young Attlee suddenly became a social worker. At the age of 24 he went to work and lived in Limehouse, one of London's workmen's districts, and he has made his life with labor ever since.

> Unlike Mr. Truman, who frequent ly lapses into Missouri mule-driver's language, Attlee's diction is cultured, sometimes poetic. In fact, he has written some widely quoted poems, one of them regarding his own workingmen's district, which "I hear the feet of many men who go their way . . . Through streets that have no pity, and streets where men decay."

Repairs Own Pipes

Attlee is married to Violet Helen where Attlee did a little gardening to 456. and repaired his own pipes in his own carpenter's shop.

Unlike Truman, Attlee is a halting, none-to-forceful speaker. When other hand, is at his best when speaking off the cuff. In conferences, Attlee tries to win his point by charm and persuasion. The President sometimes gets impatient and petulant,

When Foreign Minister Moletov visited Truman a few days after Roosevelt's death while en route to the San Francisco conference, the new President spent 45 minutes bawling him out. There have been many occasions when Molotov deserved such a scolding.

In Europe, Attlee and his gov ernment are considered among the most vigorous of all opponents to communism, and it is sometimes predicted that, in case the Russians overran Europe, the Attlee cabinet would be the first to suffer.

People Confused

WOODROW WILSON once said, "The fundamental trouble in the United States is that the people have not been the real force back of the government."

This reporter feels that statement is largely true today in spite of the fact that great new mediums for the dissemination of news and information in the radio and television have grown up since Woodrow Wilson's time. It is true people are today better informed than they were on current issues 35 or 40 years ago although the government has been bitterly criticized and charged with lobbying in its feeble attempts to inform the people on what it is doing.

As a matter of fact, these attempts are feeble, in many instances not wholly frank on the part of government, and the leaders of today in the two great political parties have failed miserably to inform the people at the grass roots on the aims, purposes and accomplishments of their government or their party.

That this is true was brought home to this reporter in a trip through a large section of the country prior to the recent election. The vote in that election was not the result of any fundamental knowledge on the part of the voters on either side of the real issues in that campaign., After talking to scores of people, we concluded they were seeking information, woefully ignorant of what their government was doing. The tremendous force of the independent voter largely went Republican, not because of faith in a Republican program, for there was none. It went Republican because of a lack of faith caused by a lack of information on the picked up extraneous issues, local one state, Republican in another just across the line. The Republican party and the Republican léadership branded Democratic principles as socialistic. They demanded Dean Acheson's resignation because they contended he protected Communists. Neither the socialist nor the Communist charge was true. And Acheson's resignation would not help the people. But they didn't know that because they had no reliable information otherwise.

Real Issue Ignored

The Republican organization conducted no educational campaign. Neither did the Democratic national organization on the real issues of the campaign. A dozen different pressure groups were at the same time cramming the air and the newspapers with propaganda, each with an axe of his own to grind. So how could the people be a real they could tie to pierced the fog of uncertainty in which they were moving? It seems to this reporter that this administration, or any administration in power, should recognize the duty and the responsiforcefully letting the people of the United States know just where they

"Three Men on a Horse"

Always ready to try bettering plays in every way possible, this fast moving comedy prethe benefit of the Civic Associa- sented the first attempt by any group to make changes of scenery. Six changes in this tion, and the third for Bob Garcia play called for a great deal of ingenuity and work by the director, Mary Cannon Bell. Fast who is seriously ill and confined moving, modern day comedy, this show was headed by John Bell, the little man who wrote to his home; the fourth will be for verses, and doped racehorses. Supported by June Meyers, Don McCulloch, John Scafide, Bay St. Louis resident, has been Ivy Ladner who has just recovered Dennie Tonkel, Johanne Craft, Betsy Nobles, Roland Hodges, Paul Tourne, Walter James from a very long illness in the Phillips, Penny Cole, George Fletcher, Imogene Allison and Dr. Harold Keefe. Snappy dialogue, mixed with modern slang, and clever acting in ridiculous situations made this play Among the members present quite a hit with Bay St. Louis audiences.

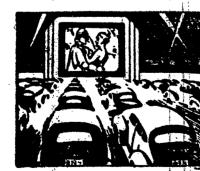

"Junior Miss"

An adolescent comedy known to radio listeners all over America, this show was an extra for the theatre. Judy (Darling Norman) and Fuffy (Dorothy Larroux) were the leading characters and were very ably supported by Paul Tourne, Charlotte Smith, Judy Swope, Scotty Assenheimer, June Breath, John Egloff, Ezelda Ling, Mark Solomon, Tommy Schaeffer, Jerry Kiefer, Martin Noto, Shelby Tucker, Tony Monti, Bruce Favre, Larry Scharff, Kinta Kergosien, Jeanette Monti, Patsy Shadoin. The play, fast paced at all times provided mirth for the audience, as the problems on stage could have been spent two days at the home of those of any American family with a daughter such as Judy. In true American style, the play ends with Judy doing the heroine role of saving the family from the chaos into which she had landed it. The first time since the theatre has been organized that a special play for children has been done. The play was directed by Caroline Kiefer.

There will be a dance in the Civic Hall Saturday night sponsored by Mrs. Clarence Moran tored to New Orleans this past and Ed Green. The proceeds will week and visited Mr. and Mrs. go to the Lakeshore Civic Association improvement funda.

Strange Bedfellows'

Starting the theatre off to a successful year, was the clever comedy, "Strange Bedfellows." Featuring an exceptionally good cast this story of women in politics in their earliest days, was a well-acted comedy. The Senator (Joe Kelleher) and his wife (Louise Dresher) with her son Matt (Paul Tourne) and his wife, Clarissa (Betty Lee Mitchell) were the leads in this play. Bettye Husband (as their daughter) with her English husband Renaldo Hass), (Noelie Dick) the Senator's granddaughter and (Jerry Kiefer) the grandson comprised this lovable flighty family.' Supported by Adeline Samuel and Imogene Allison, two ladies opposed to the suffrage move (George Fletcher) the weak but willing Mayor of San Francisco, (Mar tin Noto) wooing the granddaughter, (Mark Solomon) the Chinese Butler, (Letitia Noto) the maid in the household, and the three uninvited but in the end very welcome ladies of the demi mode, Big Tillie proprietress of the Red Rooster (Caroline Kiefer) and two of her girls, Merle Radford and Ann Porter, this comedy will long be remembered and compared favorably with the best the theatre has presented. Directed by Eleanor Sabbath, the show was a difficult one from the standpoint of 19th Century costumes and casting of roles to really fit the parts. This was ably handled by Mrs. Sabbath, and the show was one of the smoothest, throughout the entire performance.

It's Forest Enemy No. 1

LHE rising generation is America's greatest asset. That is true of trees, as it is of boys and girls. When fire sweeps through acres of growing seedlings, part of the future of America is destroyed.

A young tree is in its period of most productive growth. It is producing new wood for tomorrow-for tomorrow's lumber, paper, plywood, plastics and other chemical products. But fire kills seedlings, and makes it difficult for new seedlings to grow in the scorched earth.

Forest fires can be prevented only with the help of every citizen. And they WILL be prevented when all of us realize that every forest fire strikes at the future of our country.

These corn performance tests, designed to determine the most desirable strains, were continued in 1950 at State College, at seven branch experiment stations (Pop. | larville, Holly Springs, Verona, Broksville, Newton, Oakley, and Stoneville), and four farms in the Delta (Indianola, Parchman, and two at Sherard.) The most promising hybrids sold in the state were compared with the most open-pollinated varieties, new experimental hybrids, and a few of the less desirable hybrids offered for sale.

"It is well recognized that openpollinated varieties of corn differ greatly in adaptation and performance, and many farmers are learning that not all hybrids are superior to the best open-pollinated varieties," according to Dr. "Tests over a period of years have proved conclusively that the best adapted hybrids are superieor to the best adapted openpollinated varieties. Some hybrids, however, are unsuited for plant ing in Mississippi. Corn perforshown that most northern hybrids are unsuited for use as fullseason corns in the South because of poor yield, poor insect resistance, and poor quality."

Mississippians in every line of endeavor—industrialists, farmers, teachers, homemakers and workers -should see eye-to-eye nowadays on one important matter: Mississippi has been doing all right! For the figures prove it!

During the last five years the cash receipts of Mississippians have increased; from manufacturing, 111 per cent; from farming, 107 per cent. Gains in individual incomes for the period were: for the nation, 18.9 per cent; for Mississippi, 40.3 per cent! Matching that kind of progress with new telephones has been a big and expensive job for Southern Bell. Our investment in the state at the end of 1945 was 26 million dollars. Since then we have added new facilities costing over 45 millions—a figure 173 per cent greater than our total investment in the state after our first 65 years of business. That expenditure enabled us to add 103,078 new telephones, bringing the present number of Southern Bell subscribers in Mississippi to 218,953.

Our plans for extending lines and improving service in Mississippi during 1951 call for an expenditure of nearly a million dollars a month; and we will proceed with the work as rapidly as conditions permit.
